The Mozilla Campus Club of BV(DU)COE, Pune conducted a workshop on “Basics of Photoshop” on 3rd, 5th and 8th of September, 2018. The workshop was free of cost and open for all the students studying in BV(DU)COE. The workshop was conducted for the students who want to be innovative, creative, exceptional and unique. Mr.Adarsh Kumar, President, Mozilla Campus Club was the key speaker for this workshop.

Mr.Adarsh Kumar shared his experiences with the students. He told that before becoming a graphics designer, he learnt everything from scratch and commanded with self practice. He explained how practice is very much essential in the field of IT because without that no one can become innovative and expert in the field.

On the first day of workshop, the students were taught all the basic tools and their working.

On the second session of workshop, the students were examined about whether they have understood the given problem/task and how they approach towards the solution. It is actually difficult to teach Photoshop in three sessions, but the students were explained with every important aspect of Photoshop in general and were asked to practice their own with given problems/tasks.

Third session was all about learning pen tool, the most important part of the Photoshop software. The workshop was ended with the open forum for Q/A session.

Overall it was a good experience for the students. The students learnt a lot about the approach to create novel things. With the tremendous response from the students, the workshop turned out to be a huge success.
